

The CICADA study

We are looking to speak to people in Newcastle and Cumbria about their pandemic experiences

We will give you a £20 voucher as a thank you for your time

The CICADA study is a large national research study exploring the pandemic experiences of different groups of people across the UK. We are particularly looking to interview people who are coping with a mental health condition, disability or other chronic health condition. The results of the study will be used to help improve health and social care for vulnerable groups and minority communities. Are you:

- From a Black African, South Asian, Arabic or East European background.
- Living with a mental health condition, other chronic health condition or disability, that impacts upon your every day life.
